MORNING EXPRESS.
BUFFALO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19, 1865.

No Paper To-Morrow.

In accordance with the general suspension of business proposed to-day, observant of the solemnity of the occasion of the funeral of the murdered President, we shall publish no paper to-morrow. Should important news arrive, we will either bulletin it or give it to the public in an extra.

Over the Grave of the Murdered President.

To-day we consign to the tomb the mortal clay which so lately held the good, great soul of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. Around that tomb we shall stand, a nation of the sincerest mourners that ever wept in public lamentation. We loved this man who was our President. More than we valued or admired or esteemed him in his magistrate's place, we loved him with a personal love. More than we deplore his dreadful death as a national calamity, it bruises and grieves our hearts with a sense of personal bereavement. Our affections did not go out to him distantly, nor reach up to him, as from people to President. He was near and dear to us all, with the nearness and dearness of a great family relationship;—and in that relationship, which he developed, we had realized the pure ideal of Republican Democracy.

From full hearts we shall drop tears of the grief of a genuine love upon Abraham Lincoln's grave, and tenderly perform the last sad funeral rites, as children who lay a father to his rest. But let us not yield ourselves wholly, to-day, to mere emotion. Over the grave of our murdered President we are called upon, by the very love which we bore him, for something more than silent grieving. We owe him worthier tribute—the tribute of a high resolve that his memory shall be perpetuated, not alone in the hearts, but in the lives of his countrymen; and that all the future history of the Republic shall be, in its purest illustration of democracy, his daily builded monument. Let us here, around the martyred dead, swear to ourselves an oath of new fidelity to the great principles of human freedom and equality, which he redeemed from their neglect and brought back into the Constitution and Government of this land, sealing their redemption with his life's blood. Let us resolve, to-day, that every vestige of every wrong to man, and every vestige of every thing which corrupts the simplicity of Republicanism, as he exemplified it to us, shall be rooted out. Let us resolve to perfect his work, and to make ourselves the democrats and citizens after the pure model of his character and life.

Let us swear no vengeance for his death. The memory of the gentle heart whose throbbings of great love have been stilled forever, rebukes the passion that would make justice fierce. But solemnly let justice be sworn—calm justice, calmly executed, with firm and unfaltering hands. The bullet which struck him down has marked the course of justice for us. It came from no foe of his—was sped by no hate that he inspired. He stood up as the mark of the foes of the Union and Liberty, and died in their stead, a victim of the murderous spirit of the treason of slavery. That treason is the measure and the mark of the justice that we are called upon to do. Let us swear here to-day that it shall be done.

Death of Richard Cobden.

At the moment of our great domestic loss comes news of the death of the ablest and most intelligent friend of our country abroad, RICHARD COBDEN. Few English statesmen, living or dead, have rendered greater service to the cause of liberty, at home or abroad, than the leader of the Free-trade party of Great Britain. His loss to his countrymen will become more appreciable in years hereafter than it is to-day. Much of the seed he sowed as a social and political reformer, will spring up and bear fruit in the future. With us his eminent worth, his large and enlightened views, his catholic sympathies with progress throughout the world, his entire freedom from the insular prejudices which mark so large a proportion of his countrymen, gave him a claim upon the regard of the American people which will cause his memory to be long cherished.

GEN. HANCOCK, on the 10th inst., issued an order from his headquarters at Winchester, Va., in which he announces the surrender of Lee and his army, and says that all stragglers from the Army of Northern Virginia who comply with the terms of the surrender, will be permitted to return to their homes, and those who do not surrender will be considered as prisoners of war. He expressly excepts Moseby from the parole.

THE Kingston (Canada) British American says "it is an undisputed fact that more than one half of the journals of the Province to-day are arguing for independence—or, in other terms, for separation from the mother country."

WE are indebted to Mr. Lewis A. Mattice, of the Quartermaster's Department of the Army of the Potomac, for copies of the Richmond Whig.

Mr. Edwin Booth.

Of course, no just-minded or thoughtful person would let the foul act of J. Wilkes Booth reflect upon the eminent tragedian Edwin Booth, his brother. But for the information of those who do not know Mr. Edwin Booth's opinions, and who may imagine that sentiments are inherited with family names, we will say, that he has been a thorough Union man; he has on different occasions, here and elsewhere, for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission and in many other ways, shown his sympathy with the Union cause. We are informed that political differences had caused a serious quarrel between Mr. Booth and his brother some time ago.—N. Y. Evening Post.

A Canadian Tribute to Abraham Lincoln.

From the Toronto Globe.

We hear in all quarters the strongest expressions of admiration of the character of Mr. Lincoln, and deep sorrow that his noble career should have been brought to an untimely end. His simplicity of character, his straightforward honesty, his kindliness, even his bluntness of manner, seem to have won the popular heart, even among a foreign, and, in matter of opinion, a hostile nation. We may judge by that fact of his popularity among the citizens of the Northern States. Almost all of us feel as if we had suffered a personal loss. Mr. Lincoln is spoken of in the same terms as are used towards a familiar friend. All mourn his untimely fate. He has risen by industry, ability, and integrity to the great position of Chief Magistrate of his country. He found it in the most imminent danger, and his power to control the elements which were sweeping over the land were far from generally acknowledged. He was regarded with fear and trembling by the friends of his Government and with contempt by his opponents. But he steadily made his way. Of all the statesmen who have taken part in the American crisis he alone has emerged from it with greatly enhanced reputation, he alone can be said to have been perfectly successful in winning the praise of friends, of former foes, and of keen and disinterested critics. He was not the best man that could have been imagined for the post of Chief Magistrate in a great civil war. He had not the commanding force which infuses energy into all around him, and his public appearances were often lacking in dignity. But he was sagacious, patient, prudent, courageous, honest and candid. If he did not inspire great generals, he gave every man in the army an opportunity of developing the talents within him. He recognized merit, and rewarded it. He placed confidence, as a rule, where it was justly due, and he had his reward in great military successes. Some say that he has been cut off at a favorable moment for his reputation, but we cannot accept this view. It seems to us that he had gone through his worst trials, that his patience, sagacity and honesty would have borne even better fruits in the settlement of the affairs of the South than during the wild commotion of the war. He has been cut off at a time when, certainly, he had accomplished a great deal, but leaving much undone which he was well qualified to do. A naturally strong man, of only fifty-six, he might have hoped to live many years after finishing his work as President, in the enjoyment of the respect and admiration justly due to one who had saved the life of his country. He will be held, we think, by Americans, if not equal to Washington, second to none but he. But he had not the gratification of his great predecessor, of seeing his work completed and enjoying for a long period the gratitude of his countrymen and the admiration of strangers. There are few so hard of heart as not to shed a tear over the sudden and bloody termination of so bright a career. As great as Washington in many moral and mental qualities, his genial character was calculated to win far more popular sympathy than his predecessor. Ability and honesty all admire, but when to them are added kindness, simplicity, a freedom from selfishness, haughtiness and pride in high position, they win love as well as respect.

The officers of the revenue marine will, as a manifestation of their respect for the exalted character and eminent public services of the illustrious dead, and of their sense of the calamity the country has sustained by this afflicting dispensation of Providence, wear crape on the left arm and upon the hilt of the sword for six months.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.

The Pacific mail steamer Golden City arrived from Panama with the mails and passengers that left New York, March 23d.

The destruction of the Democratic newspapers last evening, was not the result of any recent offensive utterances, but the outbursts of long pent indignation at their opposition to the government all through the war. It was effected with such rapidity, and was so unexpected that the authorities were able to do nothing to prevent it.

At nightfall the military was in possession of the whole length of Montgomery street, the principal thoroughfare, and all approaches to it, thus preventing further violence in the quarter of the city where it was most to be apprehended.

The French organ L'Echo Du Pacifique was threatened and is now under guard. The L'Union and American was destroyed.

Intense excitement prevailed all night. Memorial services were held to-day in all the churches.

Public meetings are held to express the public feeling and the Mayor has called one for this afternoon to prepare for the obsequies.

The following proclamation has been issued by the Mayor of Montreal:

PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, Wednesday next, the 19th April, inst., at noon, has been fixed upon for the funeral ceremonies of the Chief Magistrate of the United States. The undersigned, Mayor of, Montreal respectfully invites the citizens generally to close their places of business from 12 o'clock at noon on that day, as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late President of the United States and of sympathy with the bereaved members of his family, and also as an expression of the deep sorrow and horror felt by the citizens of Montreal at the atrocious crime by which the President came to an untimely death.

[Signed,] J. S. BEAUCHY,
Mayor.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.

A large meeting of citizens was held at Platt's Hall on Sunday, the Mayor presiding.

A series of resolutions were passed, among which were the following, which amply expresses the general feeling on this coast.

The great, capacious, manly heart of Abraham Lincoln was generous enough to have embraced all with the forgiveness of its loving nature, and in their madness they have killed him.

Before his death peace was possible, all the atmosphere was filled with generous emotions and kind sympathy. Now peace means subjugation or annihilation. God have mercy on the souls of the rebel chiefs.

When this was read there was great excitement, and the people cheered over and over again.

A committee of fifty citizens was appointed to make preparations for the obsequies of the President.

All loyal citizens are requested to wear crape for thirty days.

No disturbance of the public peace has occurred since the last dispatch.

The military are still under arms and patrol the streets at intervals, but there is no probability of a further disturbance.

Despatches from Nevada and Oregon show that those States are moved equally with California.

WASHINGTON, April 18.

Gov. Jno. Brough, of Ohio, and John W. Garrett, Esq., have, upon request of the War Department, consented to act as a committee to make arrangements for the transportation of the remains of the late President Abraham Lincoln from Washington to their final resting place. They are authorized to arrange the time tables with the respective railroad companies, and to do and regulate all things for safe and appropriate transportation.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, April 18.

It is hereby ordered that in memory of our late illustrious Chief Magistrate, all officers and others subject to the orders of the Secretary of State, wear crape upon the left arm for the period of six month.

(Signed) W. HUNTER,
Acting Sec'y of State.

WASHINGTON, April 18.

It was stated in a former dispatch that the person arrested this morning as the person who attempted to take the life of the Secretary of State, was supposed to be Surratt, but there is reason to believe that the desperado is no other than Thomas, the so-called French lady, who, it will be remembered, captured the steamer St. Nicholas in 1861, and was subsequently apprehended, tried, convicted and sentenced to the Penitentiary, from which, by some means he was released. Nothing positive, however, is known on the subject.

Secretary Seward is much better to-day, so is Frederick Seward, who is gradually gaining full consciousness. It is now confidently hoped and expected that both the Secretary and Assistant Secretary will speedily recover.

In accordance with resolutions passed at a meeting of the citizens of Illinois, held at the National Hotel, yesterday afternoon, the citizens of that State assembled at Willard's Hotel, preparatory to paying their respects to His Excellency, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States.

Gov. Oglesby, accompanied by Senator Richard Yates, Gen. Isham, ex-Senator O A Browning, Hon D S Phillips, Gen J T Farnesworth, Hon Isaac N Arnold, Hon Jno Wilson, Gen Gamble, Col John S Loomis, Col Jas H Bowen, Gov Pickering of Oregon, Gen Julius White, Hon J M Hanna, Maj S Wait, Maj W C Carroll, Maj P Flynn and a large concourse of citizens, repaired to the rooms of President Johnson, in the Treasury Buildings. Gov. Oglesby presented the delegation and addressed the President as follows:

Mr. President—I take much pleasure in presenting to you this delegation of the citizens of Illinois, representing almost every portion of the State. We are drawn together by the mournful events of the past few days ... in common with the whole nation realize, as pressing us to the earth by appropriate and respectful ceremonies. We thought it not inappropriate before we should separate even in this sad hour to seek this interview with your Excellency, that while the bleeding heart is pouring out mournful anguish over the death of our beloved late President, the idol of our State, and the pride of the whole country, we may earnestly express to you, the living head of this nation, our deliberate, full and abiding confidence in you as the one who, in these dark hours, must bear upon yourself the mighty responsibility of maintaining, defending and directing its affairs.

In the midst of this sadness, through the oppressive gloom that surrounds us, we look to you and to a bright future for our country.

The assassination of the President of the United States deeply depresses and seriously aggravates the entire nation. But under our blessed constitution it does not delay nor for any great length of time retard its progress; does not for an instant disorganise or threaten its destruction. The record of your whole past life, familiar to all the splendor of your recent gigantic efforts to stay the hand of treason and assassination and restore the flag to the uttermost bounds of the Republic, assure that noble State which we represent, and we believe the people of the United States, that we may safely trust our destinies in your hands, and to this end we come in the name of the State of Illinois, and we confidently believe fully and faithfully, expressing the wishes of our people, to present and pledge to you the cordial, earnest and unremitting purpose of our state to give your administration the strong support we have heretofore given to the administration of our lamented late President, the policy of which we have heretofore, do now, and shall continue to endorse."

President Johnson replied:

Gentlemen—I have listened with profound emotion to the kind words you have addressed to me. The visit of this large delegation to speak through you, sir, these words of encouragement, I had not anticipated in the midst of the saddening circumstances which surround us and the immense responsibility thrown upon me, an expression of the confidence of individuals, and still more of an influential body like that before me, representing a great commonwealth, cheers, and strengthens my heavily burdened mind. I am at a loss for words to respond. In an hour like this of deepest sorrow, were it possible to embody in words the feeling of my bosom I could not command my lips to utter them. Perhaps the best reply I could make, and the one most really appropriate to your kind expressions of confidence, would be to receive them in silence. (Sensation.) The throbbings of my heart since the sad catastrophe which has appalled us cannot be reduced to words, and oppressed as I am with the new and great responsibility which has devolved upon me, and saddened with grief, I can with difficulty respond to you at all; but I cannot permit such expressions of the confidence reposed in me by the people to pass without acknowledgement. To an individual like myself, who has never claimed much, who has, it is true, received from a generous people many marks of trust and honor for a long time, an occasion like this, and a manifestation of public feeling so well timed, are peculiarly acceptable. Sprung from the people myself every pulsation of the popular heart finds an immediate answer in my own. By many men in public life, such occasions are often considered merely formal. To me they are real. Your words of countenance and encouragement sink deep in my heart, and were I even a coward I could not but gather from them strength to carry out my convictions of right. Thus feeling I shall enter upon the discharge of my great duty firmly, steadfastly. [Applause.] If not with the signal ability exhibited by my predecessor which is still fresh in the sorrowing minds. Need I repeat that no heart feels more sensibly than mine, this great affliction. In what I say on this occasion I shall indulge in no petty spirit of anger—no feeling of revenge. But we have beheld a notable event in the history of mankind. In the midst of the American people, where every citizen is taught to obey law and observe the rules of christian conduct, our Chief Magistrate, the beloved of all hearts has been assassinated; and when we trace this crime to its cause, when we remember the sources from whence the assassin drew his inspiration, and then look at the result, we stand yet more astounded at this most barbarous, most diabolical assassination. Such a crime as the murder of a great and good man, honored and revered, the beloved and the hope of the people, springs not alone from a solitary individual of ever so desperate wickedness. We can trace its cause through successive steps without my enumerating them here, back to that source which is the spring of all our woes. No one can say that if the perpetrator of this fiendish deed be arrested, he should not undergo the extremest penalty the law knows for crime—none will say that mercy should interpose. But is he alone guilty? Here, gentlemen, you perhaps expect me to present some indication of my future policy. One thing I will say: Every era teaches its lesson. The times we live in are not without instruction. The American people must be taught, if they do not already feel, that treason is a crime, and that it must be punished—[applause]—that the government will not always bear with its enemies, that it is strong not only to protect but to punish. [Applause.] When we turn to the criminal code and examine the catalogue of crimes, we there find arson laid down as a crime, with its appropriate penalty; we find there theft and robbery and murder given as crimes, and there, too, we find the last and highest of crimes, treason. [Applause.] With other and inferior offenses our people are familiar. But in our peaceful history treason has been almost unknown. The people must understand that it is the blackest of crimes, and will be surely punished. [Applause.] I make this allusion not to excite the already exasperated feeling of the public, but to point out the principles of public justice, which should guide our action at this particular juncture, and which accord with sound public morals. Let it be engraved on every heart that treason is a crime and traitors shall suffer its penalty. [Applause.] While we are appalled, overwhelmed at the fall of one man in our midst by the hand of a traitor, shall we allow men, I care not by what weapons, to attempt the life of the state with impunity? While we strain our minds to comprehend the enormity of this assassination, shall we allow the nation to be assassinated. [Applause.] I speak in no spirit of unkindness. I leave the events of the future to be disposed of as they arise, regarding myself as the humble instrument of the American people. In this as in all things justice and judgment shall be determined by them. I do not harbor bitter or revengeful feelings towards any. In general terms I would say that public morals and opinion should be established upon the sure and inflexible principles of justice. (Applause.) When the question of exercising mercy comes before me it will be considered calmly, judicially remembering that I am the Executive of the nation. I know men love to have their names spoken of in connection with acts of mercy, and how easy it is to yield to this impulse. But we must not forget that what may be mercy to the individual is cruelty to the State. (Applause.) In the exercise of mercy there should be no doubt left that this high prerogative is not used to relieve a few at the expense of the many. Be assured I shall never forget that I am not to consult my own feelings alone, but to give an account to the whole people. (Applause.) In regard to my future course I will now make no professions, no pledges. I have been connected somewhat actively with public affairs, and to the history of my past public acts, which are familiar to you, I refer, to those principles which have governed me heretofore and will hereafter. In general I will say I have long labored for the amelioration and elevation of the great mass of mankind. My opinions as to the nature of popular government have long been cherished, and constituted as I am, it is now too late in life for me to change them. I believe that government was made for man and not man for government. [Applause.] This struggle of the people against the most gigantic rebellion the world ever saw has demonstrated that the attachment of the people to their Government is the strongest national defence human wisdom can devise. [Applause.] So long as each man feels that the interests of the Government are his interests, so long as the public heart turns in the right direction, and the people understand and appreciate the theory of our Government and love liberty, our Constitution will be transmitted unimpaired. If the time ever comes when the people shall cease to be one of the nations of the earth, after having preserved our form of free Government and shown its existence ... through this last ordeal of intestine strife to prove that this Government will not perish from internal weakness, but will stand able ...

WHEELING, April 18.

Wednesday the 19th inst., having been fixed for the funeral services of the late President Lincoln, Gov. Boreman has issued his proclamation to the people of Western Virginia, recommending that it be observed as a day of fasting and prayer as a slight expression of the profound respect for the deceased, and their appreciation of his many private virtues and public acts, and for the purpose of solemnizing the occasion with appropriate ceremonies.

HALIFAX, April 18.

The Common Council to-day, passed a resolution expressive of sympathy with the bereaved family, and ordered, as a mark of respect to the illustrious deceased, that the flags be draped over the city buildings on the day of the obsequies.

The American citizens held a meeting today at the Consulate, for the expression of sorrow over the death of President Lincoln, and for testifying their respect to his memory. Hon. Judge Jackson, the United States Consul, presided, and Robt. Belloni, of New York, was made Secretary. After an able and eloquent eulogy upon the illustrious deceased, his character and public services, and the great loss to the nation, Judge Jackson expressed his own sympathy, and that of all loyal Americans for Secretary Seward, whose great talents he hoped a kind Providence would spare to his country. He also assured his fellow countrymen of the integrity, ability, and patriotism of President Johnson, in whom they might safely confide to uphold and maintain the great cause of human freedom and Constitutional Government.

FORT MONROE, April 16.

The sorrowful intelligence of the dastardly assassination of President Lincoln was first received here at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and created a profound sensation. The flags on the ramparts of the Fortress were at once placed at half-mast, and almost at the same instant, with such lightning rapidity did the sad intelligence extend, every vessel in the harbor, including the British gunboat Styx and two French men-of-war, exhibited the same sign of the great national calamity.

To-day many of the transports, moving to and fro, are draped in mourning. On every side is entire grief that prevades all circles ...

Yesterday, 3 P. M., the steamer Dictator arrived from the front with about 150 paroled officers and men of Lee's army, en route to their homes according to the terms granted by Gen. Grant when Lee surrendered. A large number of these including officers, were bound to Washington, D. C., intending thence to go to New York and from there take passage to the extreme Southern States. All these men have been furnished with rations to enable them to subsist on the route, and also with free transportation. The officers with their side-arms as well as the private, were allowed the greatest liberty, moving in every direction all over the point without being questioned.

Many and severe were the strictures passed by numerous bystanders as this evidence of the extreme leniency of our government was so palpably exhibited.

FORT MONROE, April 16.

The steamer Admiral Dupont arrived here yesterday afternoon from Morehead City, North Carolina, and brought advices to a still later date from Gen. Sherman's forces. Gen. Sherman, having left Goldsboro in the ..., at once struck out for Johnston's army, hoping to be able to force him to give battle. Johnston, however, kept retreating, and it seems that Sherman has met with very little resistance to his march north.

Raleigh was captured last Thursday, with but very little fighting, and that confined principally to cavalry and a skirmish between the advance pickets of both armies.

The supplies for Gen. Sherman's army are all coming near Roanoke Island, and the vessels lying at anchor there are awaiting the orders of the Chief Commissary.

NEWBERN, April 15, 10 A. M.

The superintendent of the railroad has arrived here from Goldsboro, and stated that Gov. Vance was captured by our forces between Goldsboro and Raleigh on the 13th inst.

The report is that he (Vance) had been sent to Sherman by Johnston, who was at Hillsboro, with instructions to surrender the State of North Carolina to Sherman, but these instructions were afterwards countermanded and Vance was on his return to Johnston without having seen Sherman, when he was captured. He is now a prisoner of war, not having carried out his mission.

The report also states that Jeff. Davis and family had joined Johnston, at Hillsboro, which is about thirty miles west of Raleigh. Whether Davis arrived at Hillsboro after Gov. Vance had been sent to Sherman, and caused Johnston's instructions to Vance to be set aside does not appear.

The mail is about leaving and there is no time for investigation.

POSTSCRIPT.—Sherman's forces entered Raleigh a few days since and are moving on beyond that place after Johnston who continues to fall back without fighting.

LENOIR, Tenn., April 16.

The expedition under Maj. Gen. Stoneman, which left Knoxville on the 10th of March, struck the East Tennessee Road on the 14th instant, at Mytheville, Christiansburg and Salem, Va. Between these places thirty-three bridges were burned and twenty-five miles of track totally destroyed. On the 16th, Gen. Stoneman moved via Jacksonville, Danbury and Mocksville, arriving at Grant's Creek, three miles from Salisbury, N. C., the rebel line for the defence of the town, at 6 A. M., on the 12th instant.

This line was defended by artillery and infantry, but was soon forced, and our forces entered Salisbury at 10 a. m., captured 80 stand of colors, 19 pieces of artillery, 1,165 prisoners, 1,000 stand of arms and accoutrements, 100,000 rounds of small ammunition and 1,000 rounds of fixed ammunition shells, 60,000 pounds of powder, 75,000 complete suits of clothing, 350,000 army blankets, 20,000 pounds of bacon, 10,000 pounds of salt, 20,000 pounds of sugar, 27,000 pounds of rice, 10,000 pounds of saltpetre; 50,000 bushels of wheat; $100,000 worth of medical supplies and 7,000 bales of cotton. Thirteen pieces of artillery were brought away, and all the other stores not needed for our immediate command, were destroyed. The greater part of these supplies had just been received from Raleigh.

One large arsenal with the machinery complete, 6 depots, 2 engines and trains, several bridges between Greensboro and Danville, and also some on the other side of the Salisbury with several miles of railroad track were destroyed. We lost very few in killed and wounded. Among the latter were was Capt. R. Morrow, A. A. G., of Gen. Stoneman's staff.

MEMPHIS, April 16.

The news of the assassination of President Lincoln, and the attack on Secretary Seward, created much excitement throughout the city, causing also, great grief and sorrow mingled with threats of vengeance on all secessionists. The houses are all in mourning. The secessionists deplore the assassination and keep very quiet.

CAIRO, 18th.

Letters dated headquarters military division of West Mississippi, Spanish Fort, April 9th, say the left lunette of Spanish Fort having previously been taken by Gen. Smith, the enemy evacuated the other parts of the fort at daylight of the 9th. Col. Bertran's brigade immediately occupied the fort and found two brass howitzers, one 20 and one 35 pounder Parrotts, six Napoleons, two 6-pounders, one 8 inch mortars, several 8 inch Columbiads, a large quantity of ammunition, but no mules or horses and but few rations. The guns were spiked with nails.

Our prisoners number 25 officers and 527 men. The capture of Spanish Fort gives us Forts Alexis, Eugene and Blakeley.

NEW ORLEANS, April 13.

The Times has the following special:

LAKEPORT, April 13th.—I have just arrived from Mobile. The stars and stripes were hoisted on batteries Porter and McIntosh at 10:30 A. M. yesterday, and on a church steeple of Mobile at 2:30 P. M. Gen. Granger's forces occupied the city. The rebels commenced evacuating on the 8th and continued until yesterday, when they had all left. The tug boat Allena was blown up by torpedoes yesterday.

There are no movements in the markets. The citizens are anxiously looking for the opening of the port of Mobile as a relief to their restriction of trade.

New York Legislature.

ALBANY, April 18.

... fares on street railroads in Erie, Albany and Rensselaer counties.

The following is the veto on the last named bill:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
ALBANY, April 18, 1865.

To the Assembly:

I respectfully return a bill entitled "An act for the increase of fares on the street railroads in the counties of Erie, Albany and Rensselaer," without my approval. The right and the duty to furnish relief in certain cases no one can doubt, and I deem it wise and proper that each case of varying circumstances and condition should rest wholly upon its own merits unaffected as it is unconnected with any other.

Upon examination it seems to me that the roads mentioned in the bill differ in the measure of relief required, and it may be questioned whether some of them are properly objects of relief at all. Care should be exercised in establishing precedents in this extraordinary period which may embarrass future legislation, and the application of which, upon a return to a normal condition of expense and values, may prove an unjust burden upon the people.

One of the plausible reasons urged upon the Legislature for the passage of an act granting railroad franchises, was that the roads would benefit the laboring class of people; that those of moderate means would have facilities which hitherto had been practically denied them, and the property owners along the routes were more easily reconciled, on the ground that the interests of the laboring classes were to be subserved thereby.

I am unwilling to consent to any very general disturbance or change from the rates then fixed, after mature deliberation, except in special and extraordinary cases, until the return of business and values to the settled and ordinary channels, which I confidently hope is not far distant.

(Signed) R. E. FENTON.

"My wife has been suffering from Rheumatism of an inflammatory character, for about six or seven years, sometimes very acutely. About the 1st of June last she commenced taking the People's Cure. ATWOOD'S
PATENT DRILLING MACHINE
PILE DRIVER,
AND
HYDRAULIC HAND PUMP.
PRACTICAL TESTS having fully demonstrated the superiority of this machine over all others for the purpose of sinking Oil Wells, the undersigned is now prepared to receive orders for the same.
This machinery comprises everything requisite for the boring of oil wells, excepting the STEAM ENGINE AND CAST IRON DRIVING PIPE, (but will be furnished, if desired, at a reasonable price) and dispenses with the use of the Derrick Rope, Bull wheel and other cumbrous and expensive fixtures now in use, and is so arranged, being constructed on wheels and portable that it can be easily removed for the purpose of sinking wells in different localities.
THE DETRITUS is removed from the well by our Patent Hydraulic process, and does not require the removal of the drill from the boring. This process not only removes all the detritus in from 5 to 10 minutes, but likewise effectually clears out and opens all the small oil veins that are so often entirely closed up by the old process of sand pumping.
WITH THIS MACHINE and a practical engineer, a well can be sunk from 400 to 600 feet within a period of from 18 to 20 days after the soil pipe has been driven.
Arrangements are being made for the construction and delivery of these machines at New York, Norwich, Newburg, N. Y., and Pittsburg, Penn.

MORNING EXPRESS

BUFFALO, WEDN'DAY, APL. 19, 1865.

The President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

It seems we were mistaken yesterday in stating that Hon. Daniel Clark, of New Hampshire, is now the President pro tempore of the Senate. At the extra session of the Senate held last month, immediately after the re-inauguration of President Lincoln, an election was had, and Senator Foster, of Connecticut, chosen instead of Senator Clark. We had forgotten the proceeding, which appears on the record of the 7th of March, 1865, as follows:

The Secretary (Hon. John W. Forney) called the Senate to order.

Election of President pro tempore.

Mr. Foot—I am authorized to say that the Vice President will not be in attendance in the Senate this morning. It, therefore, becomes necessary that the Senate proceed to the appointment of a President pro tempore of the Senate.

Mr. Clark—I submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That, in the absence of the Vice President, Hon. Lafayette S. Foster, of Connecticut, be and he is hereby chosen President of the Senate pro tempore.

The Secretary put the question on the resolution, and it was unanimously adopted, and Mr. Foster took the chair.

Mr. Clark—I submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary wait upon the President of the United States, and inform him that the Senate, in the absence of the Vice President, has chosen the Hon. Lafayette S. Foster, of Connecticut, President of the Senate pro tempore.

The resolution was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

The Hon. Lafayette S. Foster, would, therefore, in the case of the death of Andrew Johnson, serve as President until a President should be elected as provided in the act of Congress quoted yesterday.

The following sketch of Mr. Foster is from Lanman's Dictionary of Congress:

"Foster, Lafayette S. Born in Franklin, New London County, Connecticut, November 22, 1806, and a direct descendent of Miles Standish. He graduated at Brown's University; is a lawyer by profession; was a member of the General Assembly of Connecticut in 1839, 1840, 1846, 1847, 1848, 1854; Speaker of that House in 1847, 1848, 1854; Mayor of the City of Norwich, Connecticut for two years, and chosen a Senator in Congress from March 4, 1855, for six years, and serving as a member of the Committee on Public Lands, Pensions and the Judiciary. In 1860 he was re-elected for a second term of six years. During the Thirty-seventh Congress he was Chairman of the Committee on Pensions.

Characteristic Act of Mr. Lincoln.

It is stated by the New York Times that immediately after our army took possession of Charleston, the President wrote a letter to the commanding officer, directing him to inquire after the family of the late James L. Petigru, and to provide them with whatever they might need. He inclosed fifty dollars as a personal contribution toward their wants, if they should be in a condition to require it. Special instructions were also given to secure them full protection and the quiet occupation of their home. Mr. Petigru, it will be remembered, was one of the most distinguished lawyers of South Carolina, and stood firm and immovable, though almost alone, in his devotion to the Union, through all the madness of nullification in 1832, and of secession in a later day. Like every other Southern Union man, he was reduced to poverty by his course, but his high-toned integrity and his unflinching devotion to principle, commanded the respect even of his most bitter political foes. We are glad to learn that very considerable sums of money have been raised in Boston and New York for the relief of the surviving members of the family.

Frederick W. Seward.

Mr. Frederick William Seward, son of the Secretary, and himself Assistant Secretary of State, who was wounded by the assassin, was graduated at Union College, Schenectady, in the class [illegible] Auburn, and was admitted to the bar in 1852. A few years later he purchased an interest in and became one of the editors of the Albany Evening Journal. After the appointment of his father as Secretary of State, in 1861, he was placed in the position of the Assistant Secretaryship, and has discharged his duties with great ability and credit. He is a young man of fine abilities, of most winning manners, and endeared to a very large circle of private as well as political friends.

The Assassin, Booth.

From the New York World.

From all that we can learn of his character, political feelings, and habits, it would seem that he had long cherished a determination to kill President Lincoln. He was in the habit of showing to his associates a notched bullet, which he proclaimed "was marked for the tyrant Lincoln," or words to that effect. It is reported that while he was last playing in Boston he exhibited this murderous missle one evening in the bar-room of the Tremont House, and in presence of some fifteen or twenty men avowed his intention of taking the President's life with it. He has said the same thing, we believe, in this city, and repeatedly in Washington. But those who have known him for years have been inclined to regard him either as a mere excited braggart, or as being a little unbalanced in mind. The openness with which he made his bold threats inclined people to doubt his sincerity, and all who heard them laughed contemptuously at the moment, forgetting them soon after. In the early stages of the war, Booth's talk was so in keeping with that of hundreds in Baltimore and Washington that but little attention was paid to him individually. Indeed for a long while, as we too well know, it was dangerous for a Union man to proclaim his sentiments in the public places of Baltimore and at the capital. Booth has been decidedly dissolute, spending his nights while in Washington in low houses, singing rebel songs in company with abandoned women, according to w d [illegible] spread report. He is vain and passionate. It is quite probable that in his morbid sentimentality for the rebel cause he considered that he could gain notoriety as an American Brutus, or something of that sort. His ideas on all subjects were framed in accordance with his theatrical tastes, and we see in the melodramatic manner of his exit from the scene of the murder, his exclamation of the sic semper tyrannis—Virginia's motto—an evidence of the desire uppermost within him to enact a memorable part. This he has certainly done. He has become the most execrated man of his age. There are some who hold the opinion that a club of young secessionists in Maryland and Va., probably took an oath a long while ago to have the lives of the late President and Mr. Seward, and that lots were drawn to determine on whom the fiendish task should devolve. In this manner it is argued that the murderers' lot fell to Booth and one or two others, and that from that time forward the uppermost idea in his mind was this. Then, pursuing the opinion, it is argued still further that their lucky associates goaded them on by threats and taunts from time to time, and at last succeeded in forcing the unhappy men to the commission of the promised crime. This is not at all unreasonable to suppose, and, indeed, is more easily accepted than the theory that Booth, who was not known to have any private malice toward the government, should have voluntarily planned the deed and at the same time have influenced another to become his accomplice in the terrible homicides.

The reader may remember that when the news of the execution of Captain Beall reached Richmond, the newspapers of that city stated that the members of the federal administration had forfeited their right to live in taking his life, and that vengeance would overtake them in time. This would indicate the existence of a band of conspirators, and the sequel only adds weight to the belief that ten or twenty and not two men only were pledged to murder the President, Vice President, and members of the cabinet. It is quite probable that by the energy of the government the supposed band of conspirators will be unearthed.

From the Cleveland Leader.

We learn on the best authority that when Wilkes Booth was in this city, a year and a half ago, he remarked to a prominent citizen that "the man who killed Abraham Lincoln would occupy a higher niche of fame than George Washington." This demonstrates that his infamous deed was long premeditated.

It is a curious fact that Montgomery, the first rebel capital, and Richmond the last rebel capital, fell into our hands within twenty-four hours of each other.

The Assassination of the President.

From the New York Tribune.

CAPT. McGOWAN'S ACCOUNT OF THE ASSASSINATION.

The following statement of Capt. Theodore McGowan, A. A. G., to Gen. Augur, may be implicitly relied on as a correct version of the assassination of Mr. Lincoln:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—On the night of Friday, April 14, 1865, in company with a friend, I went to Ford's theatre. Arriving there just after the entrance of President Lincoln and the party accompanying him, my friend, Lieut. Crawford, and I, after viewing the Presidential party from the opposite side of the dress circle, went to the right side, and took a seat in the passage above the seats of the dress circle, and about five feet from the door of the box occupied by President Lincoln. During the performance, the attendant of the President came out and took the chair nearest the door. I sat, and had been sitting, about four feet to his left and rear, for some time.

I remember that a man, whose face I do not distinctly recollect, passed me and inquired of one sitting near who the President's messenger was, and learning, exhibited to him an envelope, apparently official, having a printed heading and superscribed in a bold hand. I could not read the address, and did not try. I think now it was meant for Lieut. Gen. Grant. That man went away.

Some time after I was disturbed in my seat by the approach of a man who desired to pass up on the aisle in which I was sitting. Giving him room by bending my chair forward, he passed me and stepped on one step down upon the level below me. Standing there, he was almost in my line of sight, and I saw him while watching the play. He stood, as I remember, one step above the messenger, and remained perhaps one minute apparently looking at the stage and orchestra below. Then he drew a number of visiting cards from his pocket, from which, with some attention, he drew or selected one. These things I saw distinctly. I saw him stoop, and, I think, descend to the level with the messenger, and by his right side. He showed the card to the messenger, and as my attention was then more closely fixed upon the play, I do not know whether the card was carried in by the messenger, or his consent given to the entrance of the man who presented it. I saw, a few moments after, the same man entering the door of the lobby leading to the box and the door closing behind him. This was seen because I could not fail from my position, to observe it; the door side of the proscenium box and the stage were all within the direct and oblique lines of my sight. How long I watched the play after entering I do not know. It was, perhaps, two or three minutes, possibly four. The house was perfectly still, the large audience listened to the dialogue between "Florence Trenchard" and "May Meredith," when the sharp report of a pistol rang through the house. It was apparently fired behind the scenes, on the right of the stage. Looking toward it and behind the Presidential box, while it startled all, it was evidently accepted by every one in the theatre as an introduction to some new passage, several of which had been interpolated in the early part of the play. A moment after a man leaped from the front of the box directly down nine feet on the stage and ran rapidly across it, bare-headed, holding an unsheathed dagger in his right hand, the blade of which flashed brightly in the gas-light as he came within 10 feet of the opposite rear exit. I did not see his face as he leaped or ran, but I am convinced that he was the man I saw enter. As he leaped he cried distinctly the motto of Virginia, "Sic Semper Tyrannis." The hearing of this and the sight of the dagger explained fully to me the nature of the deed he had committed.

From the New York World.

FORMER ATTEMPTS AT ASSASSINATION.

All will recollect the suspected attempt to assassinate Mr. Lincoln while on his way to Washington more than four years ago, to be installed into the office whereto he had been duly elected, and the happy failure of that attempt by its anticipation. It has not been seriously thought that anybody outside of the rebel lines would renew any such attempt, especially as the crisis of political antagonism to the President had long passed, and his temperate and unselfish views were daily winning for him hosts of friends. Besides the near approach of peace had silenced most of the opposition which the suppression of the rebellion had naturally engendered among the unthinking partisans of the South. Threats of such danger have, indeed, been received from time to time, but have been generally dismissed as the offspring of unsettled or heated brains. Even so lately as [illegible] while the President [illegible] President and asked Mr. Lincoln when he could see him, as he had something important to tell him. The President replied: "You can see me now; tell me now." Whereupon the man demurred, saying: "Let me see you on the River Queen to-night." "No," said the President; "see me here, and now." The two withdrew a few steps, and after a very few words, the President resumed his walk. It was understood at the time to be a warning that a plot was afoot to blow up the steamer while he was on board. Nothing came of it, and no notice, we presume, was taken of the man's warning more than the talk of a monomaniac. There were also rumors of a plot which looked to his murder at the time of his inauguration last March, which were frustrated by the very complete arrangements at the time.

THE FATAL DEED AT THE THEATRE.

The circumstances which led to the success of the present diabolical plot are mainly as follows: As is not uncommon, the general joy and hopefulness after the late brilliant victories, whereby the heart of the insurrection was finally and fatally pierced, the day of rejoicing was concluded by special rejoicing at the public theatres. It has not been the custom of the President habitually to attend these places of amusement, but as this seemed to be an occasion of general rejoicing, he had consented to visit it in company with his wife, for the purpose of lending his countenance and encouragement to the prevailing good feeling. General Grant and his wife were expected to be present also, but afterwards changed their determination. The play for the evening was "Our American Cousin." The presidential party, consisting of Mrs. Senator Harris and daughter, and Major Henry J. Rathbun, of Albany, arrived at the theatre about forty minutes after eight o'clock, and were ushered by Colonel Ford into the private box overlooking the stage. The performance of the play was quite lively, and the good spirits of the audience were sufficient to relieve the inordinate dullness of the play.

The expected presence of the President and General Grant drew out a crowded house. Booth was observed working his way through the crowd of persons towards the box occupied by the presidential party, but of course no suspicion was excited by the circumstances. When he reached the sentry at the door of the box, he was of course refused admittance; but in a whisper he announced himself as a senator, and said the President had sent for him. He was then allowed to pass in, when Major Rathbun confronted him in a low tone of voice with, "You mistake, sir; this is the President's box." Booth graciously begged pardon, turned to go, and struck at Major Rathbun with a knife, inflicting a severe but not dangerous wound. He stepped out of the box, passed on to the second door, which was closed, fired through it, stepped back again in the box at the first door, and in an instant had sprung out upon the stage, with a cry of "Sic semper tyrannis." The whole affair was the work of thirty seconds. Major Rathbun made no outcry at first, because he did not wish to create alarm. All in the box, as well as the sentry outside, heard the pistol-shot, but at first supposed it fired in the course of the play. Mr. Lincoln made no outcry when hit, and Mrs. Lincoln only discovered it when she turned to him, after Booth rushed past her and jumped upon the stage.

There are but few brief details to be added to the scene in the actual moments in which the assassination took place. The President was sitting in a large easy chair, which Mr. Ford had placed in the box specially for that evening. Mr. Lincoln was looking on the stage in the second scene of the third act of our American Cousin. Mrs. Mountchessington was just leaving the stage, saying to Mr. Hawk, who was playing Asa Trenchard, the words, "You don't understand the manners of good society, that alone can excuse the impertinence of which you are guilty." Trenchard answers, "I guess I know enough to turn you inside out," and the audience clapped their hands and laughed in glee, in which the President joined with a smile and turned his head half way to the audience. At that instant Booth fired the pistol through one door of the box, at the same time making good his aim, while looking through the other open door. The President threw his head slightly forward, and seemed to crouch down in his chair; but his consciousness departed forever. Booth leaped from the box to the stage, cutting Major Rathbun with his dagger as he passed through the box, and shouting "Sic semper tyrannis," as he dashed across the stage. It was but sixty-four feet from the President's box to where Booth left the horse. In the box with the President were Mrs. Lincoln, Major Rathbone, the son-in-law of Senator Harris, of New York, and chief of one of the bureaus of the Provost Marshal General's office, and Miss Harris, daughter of Senator Harris. After the shot was fired the occupants of the box seemed paralyzed.

Miss Harris recovered first and called to Miss Laura Keene, the actress, for water. A gentleman, aided by the former, climbed into the box. Another gentleman, at last brought a pitcher of water; several others also ascended into the box, and as the house was being emptied Miss Keene went round up into the dress-circle and into the box. She immediately set to work, placed the bleeding head of the dying man on her lap and endeavored to get some water down his throat, but even then he was wholly unconscious, and his breathing was rattlingly noisy. The brain was already commencing to ooze out, and the blood bedaubed the robe of the actress. The self-possession of Miss Keene is commented on as the only exception to the general fear that seized upon every one.

THE FLIGHT OF THE MISCREANT.

That Booth meant to kill the President is clear enough, but that he did kill him, shooting through a door and at an angle which he must have measured with his eye when he first looked into the box, is something almost remarkable. He must have framed his mind for just such emergencies as actually and finally came, or else the success of this shot was a mere stroke of luck to him. In any event, firing as he did, he could scarcely hope for such success once in twenty times. His intimate knowledge of the exits from the stage at Ford's, whereon he has often played—his last appearance being some six or eight weeks ago, when he played Romeo to Mrs. Bowers' Juliet—assisted his escape to the alley where he mounted his horse and rode away. The horse had been held by an employe of the theatre, who does not appear to have had any connection with the assassination. The accounts which represent that he came out of the side of the theatre and mounted his horse are all wrong. There is no exit on either side, except a small covered passage-way. The stable where Booth kept his horse temporarily was in an alley about one hundred yards in the rear of the theatre. This alley communicates at a right angle with another one leading out into F street; so, after committing the deed, he rushed out of the rear of the theatre, where he had left a small door open a few minutes before, and mounting the horse that he had previously brought there from the stable a few yards off, thus got fairly out into another street before any excitement could be created, in other words he was nearly a block out of the way and protected by a narrow alley not frequented at that hour of the night. A personal inspection of this way of escape shows that it defied pursuit, and those persons who declare that they saw him ride away from the front of the theatre simply imagine it.

From the New York Times.

THE DEATH BED OF THE PRESIDENT—LETTER FROM MARSHELL H. FIELD.

With some difficulty I obtained ingress to the house. I was at once informed by Miss Harris, daughter of Senator Harris, that the President was dying, which statement was confirmed by three or four other persons whom I met in the hall; but I was desired not to communicate his condition to Mrs. Lincoln, who was in the front parlor. I went into this parlor, where I found Mrs. Lincoln, no other lady being present, except Miss Harris, as already mentioned. She at once recognized me, and begged me to run for Dr. Stone, or some other medical man. She was not weeping, but appeared hysterical, and exclaimed in rapid succession, over and over again: "Oh! why didn't he kill me? why didn't he kill me?" I was starting from the house to go for Dr. Stone, when I met at the door Major Eckert, of the War Department, who informed me he was going directly to Stone's house, Stone having already been sent for, but not having yet arrived. I then determined to go for Dr. Hall, whose precise residence I did not know. Upon inquiring of the crowd, I was told it was over Frank Taylor's book store, on the avenue. This proved to be a mistake, and I was compelled to return to his actual residence on the avenue, above Ninth street. I found the doctor at home and dressed, and he at once consented to accompany me. Arrived in the vicinity of the house, I had great difficulty in passing the guard, and only succeeded at last in having the doctor introduced, admission being refused to myself. I returned to Willard's, it now being about two o'clock in the morning, and remained there until between three and four o'clock, when I again went to the house where the President was lying. In company with Mr. Andrews, late Surveyor of the port of New York. I obtained ingress this time without any difficulty, and was enabled to take Mr. Andrews in with me. I proceeded at once to the room in which the President was lying, which was a bedroom in an extension, on the [illegible] floor of the house. The [illegible] small [illegible] is ornamented with [illegible] pillows were saturated with blood, and there was considerable blood upon the floor immediately under him. There was a patchwork coverlet thrown over the President, which was only so far removed, from time to time, as to enable the physicians in attendance to feel the arteries of the neck or the heart, and he appeared to have been divested of all clothing. His eyes were closed and injected with blood, both the lids and the portion surrounding the eyes being as black as if they had been bruised by violence. He was breathing regularly, but with effort, and did not seem to be struggling or suffering.

The persons present in the room were the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Postmaster General, the Attorney General, the Secretary of the Treasury, (who, however, remained only till about 5 o'clock,) the Secretary of the Interior, the Assistant Secretary of the Interior, myself, Gen. Augur, Gen. Halleck, Gen. Meigs, and, during the last moments, Capt. Robert Lincoln and Maj. John Hay. On the foot of the bed sat Dr. Stone; above him, and directly opposite the President's face, an army surgeon, to me a stranger; another army surgeon was standing, frequently holding the pulse, and another gentleman, not in uniform, but whom I understood to be also an army surgeon, stood a good deal of the time leaning over the head-board of the bed.

For several hours the breathing above described continued regularly, and apparently without pain or consciousness. But about 7 o'clock a change occurred, and the breathing, which had been continuous, was interrupted at intervals. These intervals became more frequent and of longer duration, and the breathing more feeble. Several times the interval was so long that we thought him dead, and the surgeon applied his finger to the pulse, evidently to ascertain if such was the fact. But it was not till 22 minutes past seven o'clock in the morning that the flame flickered out. There was no apparent suffering, no convulsive action, no rattling of the throat, none of the ordinary premonitory symptoms of death. Death in this case was a mere cessation of breathing.

The fact had not been ascertained one minute when Dr. Gurley offered up a prayer. The few persons in the room were all profoundly affected. The President's eyes after death were not, particularly the right one, entirely closed. I closed them myself with my fingers, and one of the surgeons brought pennies and placed them on the eyes, and subsequently substituted for them silver half-dollars. In a very short time the jaw commenced slightly falling, although the body was still warm. I called attention to this, and had it tied up with a pocket handkerchief. The expression immediately after death was purely negative, but in fifteen minutes there came over the mouth, the nostrils, and the chin, a smile that seemed almost an effort of life. I had never seen upon the President's face an expression more genial and pleasing. The body grew cold very gradually, and I left the room before it entirely stiffened. Curtains had been previously drawn down by the Secretary of War.

Immediately after the decease, a meeting was held of the members the Cabinet present, in the back parlor, adjacent to the room in which the President died, to which meeting, I, of course, was not admitted. About fifteen minutes before the decease, Mrs. Lincoln came into the room, and threw herself upon her dying husband's body. She was allowed to remain there only a few minutes, when she was removed in a sobbing condition, in which, indeed, she had been during all the time she was present.

Clark Rice, Esq.: Dear Sir—I have just heard from my friend, Dr. S. S. Fitch, of 714 Broadway, that he proposes to visit Watertown for a few days. I have been long and intimately acquainted with Dr. Fitch. He cured me of a bad cough, expectoration, etc., which had affected me eighteen months. I have sent many invalids to him suffering with sore throat, cough, bleeding lungs, heart troubles, dyspepsia, etc., and have in every case witnessed relief, and in many cases most astonishing cures. I have witnessed Dr. Fitch's immense practice and great success for many years, until I am forced to believe that he is one of the first of all living physicians. He leaves home awhile for the benefit of country air. Your citizens will have a rare opportunity of profiting by his great science and experience. You can recommend him to your friends with the most perfect confidence.
Please accept my affectionate regards.

Case of Mrs. Abby Hadly.
If there are any who deny the curability of consumption, the following case ought to satisfy them to the contr[illegible]

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., March 5th, 1864.
Dr. S. S. Fitch: Dear Sir—In December [illegible] taken with a cough and trouble of my [illegible] the right lung. This increased, with fever [illegible] formation became very copious; I raised a great deal of pus. I suffered from chills, fever and night sweats. I lost flesh and wasted rapidly. My appetite was very poor, and my monthly nature left me entirely. The ends of my fingers became knobby, and the ends of the nails turned inwards; there was a dark purple color under my nails. Great quantities of matter would seem to accumulate in my right lung; finally an ulcer opened through the chest between the fourth and fifth ribs about four inches from the breast bone, nearly in the centre of the front of my right chest. When I drew in my breath the air would rush out through this opening, so that I could blow out a candle from it; the air would make a whistling, rushing sound whenever the ulcer was uncovered. Through this opening a great quantity of pus passed out every day. I have known as much as one pint to come out at once. Most usually about a half pint would come out night and morning when the ulcer was opened. I was wholly confined to my bed, and had a bad cough, chills, fever, night sweats, poor appetite, etc. In this situation I lay in my bed five months, and was reduced to a mere shadow of my former self. My face was pallid and utterly sunken. All hope of my recovery had disappeared. I had the best medical advisers the country afforded. All face[illegible] ed on me but one look, that of hopeless pity. On the 13th day of October, 1863, I commenced taking your medicines and following your directions. Without the least shock to my system, and hardly apparent at first, I began to recover, and every symptom of my dreadful disease improved; my cough lessened; my appetite returned, I raised less, and the discharges through the ulcer became less, until, finally, all symptoms of disease disappeared. I am now very well; color has returned to my cheeks, indeed I think my complexion is better than before I was taken sick. I have not entirely recovered my strength, but I am very well. I have no cough and no expectoration, no pain, etc. I need not say anything of your remedies, directions, etc. The result of my case tells enough of them. I have only to thank a good God for having directed me to you, and to thank you for your most benevolent kindness.
ABBY HADLY.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
DRY GOODS,
House Furnishing Goods and Yankee Notions.

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC.

The unprecedented success of our House justifies a brief reference to its rapid growth, its future prospects, and the secret of its popularity with the people. In 1861 our sales were $200,000; in 1864 they were over ONE MILLION DOLLARS; and comparing our sales for the present year with those of the same months in 1864, and having substantial reasons to look for a continuance of business in the same proportionate increase to the end of 1865, our sales will foot up over TWO MILLION DOLLARS at the close of the present year. There is nothing accidental in this remarkable growth. In view of the fact that we have made the interests of our patrons identical with our own. While the various departments of our business have always been kept complete—our stock always ranging from $300,000 to $[illegible]—we have never failed to give our patrons the benefit of any advantages which the markets afforded, as well as of the strict economy practiced in our affairs. We keep constantly employed, a Buyer, whose sole business it is to purchase for us in the New York and Boston Markets; and being "on the spot" continually, he is enabled from time to time to obtain great bargains, and to secure through us, to our patrons, benefits that were else unattainable. Again, our large business does not involve an expense even approximately proportioned to, say, half a dozen establishments doing the same amount of business in the aggregate. Where the profits on the same amount of sales go to support a dozen or more proprietors, and to pay the rents of as many establishments as there are firms, and to compensate salesmen, who are capable of doing three or four times the business they are called upon to do, it must be obvious to the most casual observer that a single firm, doing a business equal to the entire number, under a single roof, is enabled to effect a great saving, which we do not hesitate to share with our customers. In the matter of hiring Lady Clerks alone, in which we are the pioneers in this city, our patrons are benefited to the amount of 2 per cent. on their purchases.

TO COUNTRY DEALERS.

Our stock embraces everything in the line of Domestic and Staple Goods, and there is no article required by the Country Merchant, which we cannot supply him with—duplicating New York bills. At the present time, when goods are falling from time to time, it is evidently to the interest of the Country Dealer to keep but a small assortment on hand; there is great danger in doing otherwise. By purchasing of us, he can keep his assortment up to the most practicable point and replenish from week to week if necessary; thus saving the heavy expenses incident to a periodical trip to New York, and avoiding the dangers we have pointed out. We cordially invite the attention of Country Merchants to our large stock.

RETAIL DEPARTMENTS.

It is unnecessary to call special attention to the various retail departments. They embrace everything wanted in the Dry Goods line. Mr. CHAS. S. EATON continues at the head of the Silk department, and it is needless to suggest that this, like all the other departments, is well taken care of.

CLOAKS, MANTILLAS, &c.

Mr. WILLIAM J. NAIRN, formerly of Howard, Whitcomb & Co.'s, is the manager of this department, which is now the most complete in the West. In the manufacture of Cloaks, Mantillas and Trimmings, we keep constantly employed from 100 to 125 persons. These articles are made to order, or supplied to the Trade on the most reasonable terms and on the shortest notice.

CARPETS.

We keep constantly on hand every variety of Carpet, from the Rag to the Wilton. We buy directly from the manufacturer, paying no intermediate profit, and we sell as cheap as dealers in New York City. We display the newest patterns as soon as issued.

PAPER HANGINGS & UPHOLSTERY.

This branch of our establishment is under the superintendence of Mr. S. M. EVERY, and in the line of Curtains, Paper Hangings, Upholstery, &c., we have all the newest patterns, and those about to furnish their houses will do well to examine our stock.

YANKEE NOTIONS.

In this line we have all the substantials required by the Country Merchant or the Peddler, and are prepared to sell at New York prices.

MORNING EXPRESS

THROUGH THE HEART.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF CHAMISSO, BY GEORGE W. BIRDSEYE.

[During the "Seven Years' War," among the number chosen by lot to execute a deserter was, unknown to any, the criminal's own father. He recognized his own, yet, though the struggle was hard within, he took his place in the line, and unflinchingly did his duty. To the true soldier, Duty is a religion.]

We march to the sound of the muffled drum—
Oh, would that the terrible end were come!
How far to the place where my boy must die?
Break not, oh my heart, till the hour's passed by!

None other shared with him this love of mine;
Yet I—I am one of the chosen "nine,"
And march to the drum-beat, along with the rest
To riddle with bullets my own son's breast.

Now for the last time, with an eager eye,
He gazes above on God's sunlit sky.
They bandage his eyes. Now, Heaven be blessed,
But one moment more and my boy's at rest!

With sorrow the "Nine" do their fearful part,
And swiftly the death-bearing bullets dart.
They tremble, yes, all as they do their part;
But I—I send my bullet straight through the heart!

Revenue Decision—Income Tax of Farmers

The Internal Revenue Department announces the following:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
Washington, March 11, 1865.

"Sir: Your letter of March 9, in regard to farmers' income returns, is received.

"I reply, that the act of July 1, 1862, under which returns were made for the annual income taxes of 1862 and 1863, required farmers to return each year the entire crop harvested.

"But the act of June 30, 1864, now in force, under which the returns for the special income tax of 1863 were made, required farmers to return each year the amount of produce sold.

"It will be found that farmers' income returns for 1864 will include some portion of the crop of 1863, and which was taxed as income for that year. There is an apparent injustice in subjecting the same income tax in two different years, the year when raised and the year when sold, but a consideration of the question will show that it is only an apparent one. For, suppose the income of a farmer to be the same every year, and the rate of tax to be the same, it is plain that the amount of tax should also be the same. Now the farmer does not sell the whole crop each year within that year, and if he is taxed in 1864 on such produce only as he raised and sold within that year, it is clear that he will not pay the full tax due on his real income. Supposing the yearly crop to be the same, the farmer will, in the last year of the tax, raise a certain amount of produce on which he will pay no tax, because unsold, and such produce will, on an average, be a fair offset against the produce raised in 1863 but sold in 1864, and which, consequently, pays two taxes.

"It is true that in particular cases hardships will arise, from the fact that the practice of farmers is not uniform in regard to selling or storing produce. And in other cases farmers will escape their just share of tax for the same reason. But the same occasional inequality will occur under any general provision of law, and cannot be avoided.

"The entire amount, therefore, of produce sold in 1864 must be returned as income by farmers, without regard to any taxes previously paid on any such produce.

"Very respectfully,
"E. A. ROLLINS,
"Deputy Commissioner.

"E. F. Church, Esq., Revenue Inspector, Towsonton, Md."

ALL Europe has been alarmed by the reported appearance of the Siberian plague at St. Petersburg and its advance toward the frontier of Germany. A telegram from St. Petersburg states that it is committing fearful ravages, and that official returns as to the number of victims have altogether ceased. A semi-official organ of the Russian Government denies the correctness of these reports, which, however, the neighboring countries agree in accepting as true. The Austrian Government has sent a Medical Commission to St. Petersburg to examine into the nature of the epidemic, and the French Government has ordered all ships arriving from Russia to be put in quarantine. The English Government has sent instructions to the consuls in Russia and the ports of the Baltic to collect all the information they could on the subject and forward it to England.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT ARREST AT BALTIMORE.

THE PRESIDENT'S REMAINS COMING THROUGH BUFFALO.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Geo. F. Robinson, a soldier and nurse who was in attendance on Secretary Seward on Friday night, has related circumstantially the proceedings in the chamber, from which it appears that it was through his brave and determined endeavors that the consummation of the murderous designs of the fiend were frustrated. According to Robinson's narrative, Frederick W. Seward, Major Seward and Mr. Hansell were all wounded on the stairway as heretofore mentioned in this correspondence. As Robinson opened the door to learn the cause of the disturbance without, the man struck at his breast. In his hand he had a long knife, the blade of which appeared to be about twelve inches in length and one inch in width. Robinson, determined to oppose his progress, raised his arm to parry the blow. The consequence was that a wound was inflicted in the centre of his forehead close to the hair, which he wears turned back. The knife glanced, and the clenched hand in which the man held the dagger came down upon Mr. Robinson's face and felled him to the floor. Miss Seward at this juncture escaped from the room, and ran to the front window, screaming murder. The assassin leaped to the bed where Mr. Seward lay, still apparently in a helpless condition, and gave a tremendous blow at his face. He missed his mark, however, and almost fell across Mr. Seward's body. By this time Robinson had recovered, jumped on the bed and caught hold of the assassin's arms. While he was thus attempting to hold the assassin the latter struck Mr. Seward on the left side of the face and then on the right side. The assassin then raised up and he and Robinson came to the floor together. They both got on to their feet, Robinson still keeping a firm hold of him.—The assassin reached his left arm over Robinson's shoulder and endeavored to force him to the floor. Finding he could not handle Robinson in that position he dropped his pistol which had been forced against Robinson's face in the hand which was around his neck, caught hold of Robinson's right arm with his left hand and struck behind Robinson with the knife. They still continued struggling for a few moments, Robinson forcing toward the door which was open with the intention of throwing him over the banisters.

When they had nearly reached the door Major Augustus Seward entered the room. Robinson called on him to take the knife out of the assassins hand. Major Seward immediately clutched the assassin—the latter then struck Robinson in the stomach knocking him down, he broke away from Major Seward and rushed down stairs.

During the scuffle, when he cannot say, Robinson received a wound quite serious, some two inches in breadth on the upper part of the right shoulder blade, another a little lower down on the same side and a slight one on the left shoulder. While struggling with the man near the bedside he had seized the wrist of his right hand in which was the dagger, and did not release his hold until knocked down by the assassin near the door, and after Major Seward had come to his assistance.

He returned to the room after he found that the assassin had escaped, and found that the Secretary had got off the bed on to the floor, dragging with him the bed clothes, and was lying in a pool of blood. Upon going to the Secretary he found no pulse in his wrist and stated to Miss Seward, who had re-entered the room and asked if her father was dead, that he believed he was, but upon a second examination Robinson ascertained that his heart was still beating. The Secretary then said, "I am not dead—send for the police and a surgeon, and close the house." He then placed the Secretary on the bed, telling him he must not talk. Mr. Seward did not speak after that.

Mr. Robinson remained with Mr. Seward until eleven o'clock the next morning when he was removed to the Douglas Hospital, where every attention is being paid to this brave man by the attendants of this institution, and his condition is very favorable.

NEW YORK, April 18th.—The Herald's special says it is reported that the assassin who entered Mr. Seward's house has been arrested. It is certain one of the assassins, probably Suratt, has been arrested. Samuel Mattam, of Hookstown, Md., the one who wrote the letter found in Booth's trunk signed Sam, has been arrested.

The Herald's Newbern correspondent of the 13th, gives a rumor that Johnston was about to surrender.

A State Convention, to consist of delegates from all the counties, is called for the 14th of May.

The Herald's Richmond dispatch of the 16th says: General Lee arrived in that city at half-past 3 P. M., on the 15th. He and his staff were received with the greatest enthusiasm by the populace. Cheer upon cheer being given them, even Union officers raised their caps to him.

NEW YORK, April 18.—It appears by an order issued by General Sherman, announcing to his army the surrender of Lee. Sherman has reached Smithfield, where he dates the order April 12th.

The World's Richmond dispatch says: Saturday evening about nine o'clock, Gen. Ord and Generals Ould and Mumford, rebel and Federal commissioners of exchange, were sitting in J. W. Forney's room, Spottswood Hotel, when a telegraph message was handed in announcing the President's assassination.

Ould exclaimed, "That is the worst blow the Confederacy has had yet.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The following dispatch has been received by Colonel E. S. Sanford, President of the American Telegraph company:

WASHINGTON, April 18.—To E. S. Sanford, Esq.: We think that both the Secretary and Frederick are better. They are sleeping quietly at this hour, 10 A. M.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Frankfort, April 17, 1865.

By the hand of an assassin great grief has been brought upon our country. The Chief Magistrate of the nation, the President of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, has fallen a victim to rebellious hate, and under the vengeful blow of an assassin. He has fallen at a time when his great qualities of humanity were so hopefully invoked for the healing of our national woes, with no stain of a vindictive nature upon his soul, with a great heart of generous sympathies and broad humanities. His untimely fall has bowed a nation's head in mourning.

On Wednesday, the 19th inst., at the hour of twelve o'clock, let every church bell be tolled throughout the commonwealth. On that day let all business be suspended and all business houses closed. The public offices will be closed and draped in mourning.

The citizens of Kentucky are invoked to pay homage to the national grief which such a great and mournful calamity inspires.

THOMAS E. BRAMLETTE,
Gov. of Kentucky.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—To an address by a number of clergymen who called on him to-day, the President replied thanking them in the warmest terms possible for their very kind mention of him and for their tendered support and encouragement. He spoke with feeling of the great personal and public worth of his lamented predecessor. Assuming the grave responsibilities imposed upon him in obedience to the requirements of the Constitution, in consequence of this sad dispensation of Providence, he felt his own individual insufficiency, and the necessity of the kind counsel and co-operation of all friends of their country.

This report he should endeavor to deserve by shaping his course to those immutable principles of right which underlie our Government.

He said he had a sure faith that if we adhered to those principles the Almighty would save the nation. He believed that the nation had a great mission to fulfill, and that God would not allow it to perish before its work was done.

They had alluded to the murder of the late President and to the attempt upon Mr. Seward's life in just terms of indignation and horror.

The assassination of any man, high or low, was a crime of the blackest dye, especially diabolical was it when the blow was struck at the loved and honored head of a nation in the very moment of triumph, but this horrible crime was only a portion of the greatest of crimes, the attempted assassination of the nation, and he believed that the American people felt it to be so. Treason, he said, was a crime and not a mere difference of political opinions. The President closed by again thanking his visitors for giving him at this hour their God-speed.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—A gentleman who was at Point Lookout yesterday morning was informed by an officer of one of our gunboats, that Booth and the other conspirators, about thirty in number, were in St. Marys county, heavily armed, and endeavoring to make their way across the Potomac, which was strongly picketed and none allowed to pass. He also stated that on Sunday evening a small squad of our cavalry had a collision with them and been repulsed, but succeeded in capturing one of them.

In the meantime our cavalry were reinforced yesterday morning, and were understood to have them completely surrounded, and their escape was deemed impossible.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Late last night a man, disguised as a laborer and carrying a pack on his shoulder, approached the house occupied by the family of Surratt in this city, and was about to enter, when he was arrested, and upon washing the dirt from his face, he proved to be quite a different looking person from what his appearance indicated.

He called himself Payne and exhibited not a little embarrassment.

He managed to ask in agitated tones why he was arrested.

The colored servant of Secretary Seward was sent for, when he exclaimed immediately, "That's the man! I know him by his general appearance and his mouth." The servant then said there could be no mistake.

Others in Secretary Seward's house at the time, who probably have a recollection of Surratt's appearance, will be afforded an opportunity to recognize him.

The man arrested is believed to be Surratt, who perpetrated the dreadful acts at Secretary Seward's house on Friday.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The remains of the President will probably be conveyed from Washington Thursday morning to Illinois, by way of Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland and Toledo.

The time schedule has not been determined, but about one week will be occupied in reaching Illinois.

MONTREAL, April 18.—The public Union prayer meeting last night was densely crowded. The meeting throughout was characterized by the deepest serenity. A feeling of earnest sympathy pervaded the whole of the vast multitude. Clergymen of all denominations were present. Addresses of sympathy for the United States in their affliction were made by the Rev. Messrs. Bonar, Bond, and others.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—A highly important arrest has been made here to-day. The name of the party is at present withheld. He has made a full confession, being one of the conspirators against the life of the President, and acknowledging himself to be the author of the letter signed "Sam," which was found in Booth's trunk.

SEWING MACHINES.

GROVER & BAKER'S

CELEBRATED FIRST PREMIUM

Family Sewing Machines!

Important Facts for the Public.

FIRST

THE MACHINES MANUFACTURED by the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine Company have taken the FIRST PREMIUM at the late State Fairs held in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Missouri Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama, and California.

SECOND.

The work executed by the Grover & Baker Machines has received the FIRST PREMIUM at every State Fair in the United States where it has been exhibited.

THIRD.

Experience proves that there are only two valuable sewing machine stitches—THE GROVER & BAKER STITCH, and the SHUTTLE STITCH, by some called "LOCK STITCH." These stitches have each their peculiar merits and excellencies. For some purposes the one stitch is better adapted and for some purposes the other, and a selection should always be made accordingly.

FOURTH.

The Grover & Baker S. M. Co. manufacture, in addition to their celebrated GROVER & BAKER STITCH Machines, the most perfect SHUTTLE or "LOCK STITCH" Machines in the market, and afford purchasers the opportunity of selecting after trial and examination of both, the one best suited to their wants. Other companies manufacture but one kind of machine each, and cannot offer this opportunity of selection to their customers.

FIFTH.

The Grover & Baker S. M. Co., are the only parties who manufacture and sell machines which both SEW PERFECTLY and EMBROIDER PERFECTLY.

A pamphlet containing samples of both the Grover & Baker Stitch and Shuttle Stitch in various fabrics, with full explanations, diagrams and illustrations, to enable purchasers to examine, test and compare their relative merits, will be furnished on request, from our offices throughout the country. Those who desire machines which do the best work, should not fail to send for this pamphlet, and test and compare these stitches for themselves.

GROVER & BAKER'S SEWING MACHINE COTTON will be found superior to any in the market. It is made by the best European manufacturers, and put up on spools of 250 or 500 yards, expressly for the Grover & Baker S. M. In consequence of extensive and timely arrangements with these manufacturers, we are able to sell this superior Cotton below the prices of other leading manufacturers.

GROVER & BAKER'S SEWING MACHINE TWIST, long recognized as the best in the market, furnished in any quantities desired, at wholesale or retail at the lowest market prices.

The Mutual Insurance Company OF BUFFALO.

CAPITAL, (actually paid in)........$200,000

THIS COMPANY, organized by a special charter from the State of New York, continues to insure buildings and property of every description against loss or damage by fire. Also, Marine Risks, Vessels, Cargoes and Freights at the current rates of premium.

The whole net profits of this company are divided annually amongst the parties effecting insurance with it, thereby saving to the insured, as its experience for the past sixteen years will show, over thirty per cent.

The accumulated capital belongs to the company and is securely invested at seven per cent. interest, sufficient to pay the annual interest on its outstanding scrip, and to enable it to divide all its profits amongst the parties who insure with it.

This Company is not organized on the principle of Country Mutuals—does its business for cash, same as stock companies—and annually issues its scripts for the profits, and by a special clause in its charter, no scrip holder or customer of the company is personally liable for one cent over and above the premiums paid by them.

MORNING EXPRESS

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

BUFFALO, WEDN'DAY, APL. 19, 1865.

Proclamation by the Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, BUFFALO, April 17, 1865.

A few days ago the country was rejoicing over a series of splendid victories, resulting in the surrender of the only remaining, formidable rebel army, and in the hope of the early restoration of Peace and Union. In an instant we are plunged from joy to mourning. The flags which waved in triumph are at half-mast and drooping. The President of the United States lies a corpse, struck down by an assassin; the Secretary of State, helpless upon a sick bed, is stabbed by some murderous villain, and the Nation stands aghast at the enormity of the crime and the boldness of its execution. The Governor of the State has withdrawn his proclamation of Thanksgiving and Prayer, and recommends that Thursday, the 20th instant, be observed by religious exercises, expressive of the national bereavement and the universal grief. The local committees in charge of the celebration proposed to be held on the evening of that day have, very properly, abandoned the contemplated illumination. I would, therefore, recommend that all business, so far as practicable, be suspended; that our citizens assemble at their accustomed places of worship, and that the day be observed as one of mourning and humiliation. In the presence of such a calamity, it is the duty of citizens, laying aside partisan animosities, to rally as one man in support of the constituted authorities, and to do all in their power to enable them to carry the country safely through the new dangers which beset it. At the open grave of the President we must renew the pledges of fealty to the Constitution and the laws, and never despair of the Republic.

WM. G. FARGO, Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, BUFFALO, April 18th, 1865.

It having been officially announced from Washington that the funeral obsequies of the President will take place on Wednesday, the 19th inst., I recommend the observance of that day instead of Thursday, the day designated in the proclamation of the Governor.

STEREOPTICON exhibits at St. James Hall to-night.

AN attempt was made by burglars to rob the Exchange Bank at Rochester, on Sunday night, but the iron doors of the vault resisted their attack, and they got nothing except a revolver, which they found lying loose.

POLICE COURT.—Ann Honan, alias Neylan, was up before the Police Justice yesterday, for assault and battery, and was sentenced to two months imprisonment in the workhouse.

Bridget Nolan was brought before him on a charge of shoplifting from the store of Sherman & Barnes. She was convicted and fined $15.

FALSELY CHARGED.—The journalists of this city are charged by the Erie Dispatch with tampering with the dispatches of the Associated Press, and withholding intelligence from that paper, to which it was justly entitled. That cannot be, for the newspaper men of this city have no power whatever over the telegraphic dispatches. The Dispatch is wrong in this instance.

NOTICE TO GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS.—At a meeting of the Government Officers held yesterday, it was resolved that all officers and employees of the federal government be, and they are hereby notified and requested to be and appear at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, West Seneca street, at 10 o'clock, A. RESOLUTIONS BY OUR COLORED CITIZENS.—We have been handed a series of resolutions adopted by our colored citizens at the Vine Street Church, on Thursday evening last, (the 13th inst.,) but the crowded condition of our columns will not admit of their insertion. They express devout thanks to God and Abraham Lincoln, for the great benefits bestowed upon them in the freeing of their race, and declares their determination to aid in all possible ways the cause of the Union, and to so live as to show that their race is deserving and capable of freedom.

Go to the Stereopticon to-night.

Grief-pierced unto her great heart's core,
Bowed to the dust and stricken sore,
The Nation leaves her task undone
To weep in anguish o'er a son
Whom she shall see no more, no more.

Proudly, a few short hours before,
Exulting in her joy, she bore
Aloft her starry flag—her brow
Aglow with victory; and now
She sits and moans, "No more! no more!"

No vengeance on the wretch who tore
Her loved one from her, can restore
The life she prized—though wrathful, grim,
She seize and rend him limb from limb—
The lost returns no more, no more!

Too just to wrong, too meek to soar,
His heart was of the sterling ore;
Not proudly strong, but grandly pure,
He saw his crowning work mature
In triumph, then—no more, no more.

Honored in life, in death he wore
The crown of martyrdom, and o'er
The witness of his life there glows
The lurid grandeur of its close,
To light the ages evermore!

Funeral Ceremonies of President Lincoln To-Day.

At the meeting of the respective committees appointed by the Common Council, the Board of Trade, and the citizens, held at the Merchants' Club Room last evening, it was decided to suitably observe, on the 19th instant, the solemnities of the funeral of our late and venerated Chief Magistrate, by uniting in procession and by an appropriate address.

The undersigned were appointed a committee on behalf of those whom the meeting represented to cordially request a universal observance in our city of the sorrowful event by the closing of all places of business, and the [illegible] clergy, judiciary, Common Council, city officers, members of the bar, military companies, fire department, teachers in our academies and public schools and their pupils, all associations and organizations in their accustomed uniforms and regalia, and citizens generally, and all military officers or strangers are requested to appear and unite in the ceremonies, at such time and place and order as the Marshal of the day shall officially announce in the morning papers.

The committee further request that all stores, dwellings and public places be draped with appropriate symbols, and that those who unite in the procession wear the usual badge of mourning.

It is hoped that the procession and ceremonies will be of that august, solemn and imposing character which shall appropriately express the deep sorrow of our citizens, and worthily commemorate the memory of the illustrious dead.

THE Stereopticon has some of the finest views of the world.

THE COMMITTEE MEETING LAST NIGHT.—A meeting of the Committees of the Common Council, Board of Trade, and citizens, was held at the Citizens Exchange Rooms last evening, to perfect arrangements for the funeral obsequies to be observed to-day. The order of procession was revised, and the order of exercises at the stand made out.

It was directed that the Marshals wear black and white scarfs, from right shoulder to hip under left arm, and tri colored badges covered with crape upon left breast. The Assistant Marshals will wear badges only. The Marshal's, Aid's and Pall Bearer's badges will be furnished at the Citizens' Exchange.

It was thought desirable that all persons joining in the procession should wear a badge of mourning on the left arm.

On motion of Mr. Yaw it was voted to assign a place in the procession to the Colored citizens.

THE Stereopticon at St. James Hall to-night.

MAD. CAMILLA URSO'S CONCERT.—A small audience attended the concert last night. The entertainment was worthy of much better patronage; but the public attention is too much engrossed with the one great tragical gloom of the hour to seek or desire amusement.

Mad. Urso performed her pieces with great delicacy and finish. In some points we are willing to concede to Mad. Urso a very perfect technique; but as a soloist she lacks power and breadth of style. A little facial animation would add greatly to the lady's attractiveness in the concert room.

Mad. Motte, the lady vocalist of the troupe, is a most promising singer. Her voice—a mezzo-soprano—is of good quality and flexible. Her musical nature is strongly marked. Her rendition of the famous "Lucrezia" drinking song was admirable. She gave it in the style of Mad. Alboni—including the trill near the close—and most pleasantly recalled that eminent artist. We hope to hear Mad. Motte here again.

Herr Lehman, baritone, and Herr Guscruth, pianist, are fair artists, and received favor at the hands of the audience.

National Sins.

"They drank with emphasis and clasped hands."—Washington paper.

Wednesday, April 19th, is set apart by our rulers as a day of humiliation and prayer, that we may offer up our petitions to the Lord of the Universe, to give us repentance for our individual and national sins, that He may "stay His hand" and turn His judgments from us. In His overruling Providence He has so ordered it that a war gotten up for the perpetuation of slavery has been the cause of its extinction. Thus we are purged from one of our greatest sins, and while the blood of thousands of our sons has been offered up to wash out this stain, the lives of millions of our sons have been and are being sacrificed in the bondage of drunkeness. Let then the clergy and the people, humble themselves on this day for the sin which fired the brain and nerved the arm for the preconcerted murder of our friend and President. TEMPERANCE.

GREAT FRENCH STEREOPTICAN.—This wonderful exhibition opened at St. James Hall last evening. It was a grand and beautiful success.

It has shown us some of the best statuary in the world, and with all the fine effect of the originals, and the most enchanting views in foreign lands. There has never been shown here anything so attractive to people of cultivation. The exhibition is delightful from beginning to end.

The most beautiful landscape of the Old World, noted buildings, palaces and statuary are reproduced with the vividness of reality, the whole constituting the most pleasing and remarkable entertainment that has ever visited our city. Another exhibition will be given this evening.

A RAID UPON ROCHESTER FEARED.—The citizens of Rochester are somewhat excercised by apprehensions of a raid upon that city from Canada. The Mayor received a telegram Sunday from Maj. Gen. J. J. Peck, Commanding Gen. Dix's Department at New York, stating that he had information that a band of 150 men was organized in the County of Carlton, C. W., for a raid on the frontier, Rochester or Ogdensburg being their probable destination. Steps were immediately taken to avert the threatened danger by the calling out a portion of the 54th N. G. The general government will be solicited to send a detachment of troops to guard that portion of the frontier.

THE PRESIDENT'S DEATH.—In the United States District Court, at its regular weekly session in Admiralty, yesterday morning, Judge Hall announced that in consequence of the death of the Chief Magistrate of the United States, the Court would, without transacting any business, adjourn till Tuesday next. The Court was then adjourned.

SEAMEN'S UNION RESOLUTIONS.—

Whereas, The workingmen of these United States, in common with their fellow citizens, have suffered a severe loss in the sad and unexpected death of the Chief Magistrate of the nation, and

Whereas, The friendly feeling and courtesy extended by President Lincoln to the New York Mechanics, the Committee on behalf of the Sewing Women of Philadelphia and other similar occasions, fully prove that he possessed a warm sympathy for the welfare of the "Sons and Daughters of Toil," and

Whereas, The officers and members of the Buffalo Seamen's Union mourn the national calamity that now grieves every good citizen, therefore be it

Resolved, That as an expression of our deep sorrow and respect for the memory of the illustrious dead, we unite with our fellow citizens in the funeral obsequies on Wednesday, at nine o'clock a. m.

Resolved, That the Seamen's Hall be draped in mourning for thirty days, in respect to the lamented deceased President, and regret that our country suffers in her difficulty in restoring peace and happiness to a divided people, whose only hope for contentment and prosperity is in a Union of States, a Union of hands and a Union of hearts.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the afflicted family and friends of the deceased President.

Resolved, That while we deeply feel for the suffering Secretary of State, Hon. Wm. H. Seward, we thank kind heaven that fond hopes remain of his speedy recovery from the fiendish assault recently made upon him when confined to his sick bed, and we earnestly pray for his complete restoration to health, and power in the affairs of his now sorely tried country.

Unanimously adopted.

Then 'twere well 'twere done quickly."
Why suffer on for week and months,
The horror of Dyspeptic pangs,
Or live a martyr unto Headache dire,
Or fight with Ague, Dullness, Vertigo,
And all the pains the human stomach bears,
When PLANTATION BITTERS will afford relief
Speedy and permanent. And more,
They are the pleasantest medicine
That suffering man hath ever swallowed.
Their cures are quick, and permanent as quick,
Then suffer not but instantly procure
A bottle of PLANTATION BITTERS; and thy cheek

And life be merry as a marriage bell.

Cleanse the Blood.

With corrupt, disordered or vitiated Blood, you are sick all over. It may burst out in Pimples, or Sores, or in some active disease, or it may merely keep you listless, depressed and good for nothing. But you cannot have good health while your blood is impure. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA purges out these impurities and stimulates the organs of life into vigorous action, restoring the health and expelling disease. Hence it rapidly cures a variety of complaints which are caused by impurity of the blood, such as Scrofula or King's Evil, Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter or Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Cancer or Cancerous Tumors, Sore Eyes, Female Diseases, such as Retention, Irregularity, Suppression, Whites, Sterility, and Syphilis or Venereal Diseases, Liver Complaints and Heart Diseases. Try AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and see for yourself the surprising activity with which it cleanses the blood and cures these disorders.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound "Sarsaparilla," and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. We think we have grounds for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of diseases it is intended to cure. We can assure the sick, that we offer them the best alternative which we know how to produce and we have reason to believe it is by far the most effectual purifier of the blood yet discovered by anybody.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is so universally known to surpass every other remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced stages of the disease, that it is useless here to recount the evidence of its virtues. The world knows them.

Prepared by J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., and sold by WM. LAVERACK, Buffalo, and by all dealers. ap7eodimao

DR. RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS.

Don't confuse these surpassingly excellent pills with inferior articles. They are just what they profess to be, and nothing else. If you are a victim to dyspepsia, to heart-burn, to costiveness, and all the painful, as well as depressing symptoms which attend a poor digestion of the food you eat, take Dr. Radway's Regulating Pills, and the immediate relief you will experience will render all eulogy of their virtues superfluous. Never tell us that you are in despair because you have tried so many other kinds of pills in vain, their drastic effects only aiding the piles perhaps, to your catalogue of ailments. Dr. Radway's Regulating Pills operate mildly, searchingly, and effectively. They are not made of aloes, or gamboge or of similar ingredients, [illegible] together in a crude state, mixed up, as they always are, with much inert material so that you are compelled to take several times as much as you ought. Such pills purge you violently. They gripe you severely. Radway's Regulating Pills, on the contrary, though they are but 25 cents a box, are composed of the active principle of all of the most recherche and expensive medicinal agents. They are dainty little pills to take and never offend the most delicate stomach. There is no griping with them, and no weakness after them. They gently operate, and little by little as their name implies, so regulate the system that your appetite returns, your digestion grows stronger, your liver does its duty, your stomach becomes quiescent, your costiveness disappears, your heart-burn is forgotten, you unconsciously acquire a more robust health than ever.

Every family in the land should provide themselves with a box of these pills—one or two taken on the first symptoms of uneasiness, will immediately check disease, however malignant. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by Druggists and country merchants and Dr Radway's offices, No 87 Maiden Lane New York. ap1eod&w

Every person who has ever taken BRISTOL'S BALSAM OF HOARHOUND, pronounces it the best article ever invented; and so justly celebrated has it become, that the market is already full of imitations, counterfeits and most dangerous compounds, under the name of Balsam of Hoarhound. The numerous recommendations of the value of this medicine, and a trial of its virtues, are all that is necessary to convince any one of its extraordinary qualities.

MARK—This invaluable medicine has now been some twenty-one year before the public, and without any effort on the part of the proprietor, its sale has become very extensive, and is daily increasing. A SINGLE BOX OF BRANDRETH'S PILLS contains more vegetable extractive matter than twenty boxes of any pills in the world besides; fifty-five hundred physicians use them in their practice to the exclusion of other purgatives. The first letter of their value is yet scarcely appreciated. When they are better known, sudden death and continued sickness will be of the past. Let those who know them speak right out in their favor. It is a duty which will save life.

Our race are subject to a redundancy of vitiated bile at this season, and it is as dangerous as it is prevalent; but Brandreth's Pills afford an invaluable and efficient protection. By their occasional use we prevent the collection of those impurities, which, when in sufficient quantities, cause so much danger to the body's health. They soon cure liver complaint, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, pain in the head, heartburn, pain in the breastbone, sudden faintness and costiveness. Sold by HOLLISTER & LAVERACK, Buffalo, and by all respectable dealers in medicines. mr27-1md&c

AN INTERESTING LETTER.—Messrs. Post & Bruff, Agents New York Sanitary Society, Rochester.—Gents: I deem it due to you to state the magical effect of that one bottle of People's Cure which I obtained from you in November last. Seeing the advertisement of your Society, offering to give your medicine to clergymen for the poor of their parishes, I obtained a bottle for a poor girl of my congregation, who had long been nearly helpless from Rheumatism, and strange to say, that one bottle cured her entirely. I write this, hoping it may aid the Society in its efforts to introduce the medicine, and bless those who may need such a remedy; and I use strong terms, as I believe its merits will fully justify the most superlative forms of speech.

A FEW REASONS WHY THE

AMERICAN WATCH

IS THE BEST.

It is made on the best principle, while the foreign watch is generally made on no principle at all. The foreign watch is mostly made by women and boys, BY HAND. While their labor is cheap, their work is dear at any price. Such watches are made without plan, and sold without guarantee. They are irregular in construction, and quite as irregular in movement. They are designed only to sell, and the buyer is the party most [illegible] sold. Those who have kept "ancres," "lepines" or "Swiss levers" in professed repair for a few years will appreciate the truth of our statement.

THE PLAN OF THE AMERICAN WATCH.

Instead of being made of several hundred little pieces, screwed together, the body of the American Watch is formed of SOLID PLATES. No jar interferes with the harmony of its working, and no sudden shock can throw its machinery out of gear. In riding or any business pursuit, it is all held together as firmly as a single piece of metal. It is just what machinery should be—1st. ACCURATE. 2d. SIMPLE. 3d. STRONG. 4th. ECONOMICAL.

We not only secure CHEAPNESS by our system, but QUALITY. We do not pretend that our Watch can be bought for less money than the foreign make-believes, but that for its real value it is sold for one-half price.

OUR SOLDIER'S WATCH (named Wm. Ellery) is what its name indicates—Solid, Substantial and always Reliable—warranted to stand any amount of Marching, Riding or Fighting.

OUR NEXT HIGHER QUALITY OF WATCH (named P. S. Bartlett) is similar in size and general appearance, but has more jewels, and a more elaborate finish.

OUR LADIES' WATCH, recently brought out, is put up in a great variety of patterns, many of them of rare beauty and workmanship, is quite small, but warranted a keep time.

OUR YOUNG GENTLEMAN'S WATCH is neat, but large, and just the thing for the pocket of Young America.

THE PROOF of the merits of our Watch may be found in the fact that we now employ over seven hundred workmen in our factories, and that we are still unable to supply the constantly increasing demand.

OUR THREE-QUARTER PLATE WATCH is thinner and lighter than the others we have described. Its fine chronometer balance is delicately adjusted to correct the variation caused by changes of temperature. These watches are the fruits of the latest experiments in chronometry, and are made by our best workmen in a separate department of our factory. For the finest time-keeping qualities they challenge comparison with the best works of the most famous English and Swiss makers.

CONFESSION OF ONE OF THE CONSPIRATORS.

SECRETARY SEWARD MUCH IMPROVED.

THE EXHIBITION OF THE REMAINS OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

GUERRILLAS IN KENTUCKY SURRENDERING.

OFFICIAL ACCOUNT OF THE CAPTURE OF SPANISH FORT AND BLAKELY.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Post's special says, President Johnson, yesterday, said to clergymen who begged of him to be merciful to the rebels, that mercy to individuals was not always mercy to the State. He also declared to a prominent member of Congress, that he was willing to act with the utmost magnanimity towards the common people of the rebel States, but that the unrepentant leaders must be punished.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—It is understood that the party alluded to as under arrest [illegible], states that the original design of the conspirators was merely to capture President Lincoln sometime back, make him [illegible], and in this way compel a general [illegible] of all rebel prisoners then held [illegible] States. When the general exchange of prisoners [illegible] commenced, this project was however, [illegible] and others as no longer abandoned by [illegible] says he refused to have necessary, and he [illegible] with it and endeavored to induce others to give up their designs upon the life of the President. This is substantially a correct statement of what the prisoner has divulged. He is a well known resident of Baltimore.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The following dispatch has been received by Col. E. S. Sanford, President of the American Telegraph Co.:

WASHINGTON, April 18.—To E. S. Sanford:—Uncle is much better. He sat up for quarter of an hour this morning, and was bright and cheerful. To-day is a marked improvement upon yesterday. Frederick is slowly but surely regaining his consciousness. He has spoken twice this morning. He sleeps much of the time, and breathes regularly and easily. His pulse and appetite are good. I think every one feels encouraged with regard to both. The messenger and nurse are both doing well.

(Signed,) C. A. SEWARD.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—The city councils have offered a reward of $10,000 for the apprehension of the assassin of President Lincoln. The feeling here against Booth is greatly intensified by the fact that he is a Baltimorean, and it is desired by the people that one who has so dishonored the fair fame of Baltimore should meet with speedy justice.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The body of the late President is lying in state in the East Room. Thousands of persons of both sexes are thronging thither, forming a long line of procession and being admitted in the order in which they approached the Executive Mansion.

The East room is decorated with the trappings of woe, in a manner alike creditable to the artists who arranged the adornments and worthy the solemn occasion.

In the immediate centre of this spacious room is erected the catafalco, and the coffin is within the immediate view of the line of spectators. Each stops a moment to take a view of the face of the deceased, and many shed tears.

The band of friendship and affection has contributed the choicest flowers to adorn the coffin and make up the foundation on which it rests. Between half-past [illegible] this morning and noon at least 8000 persons had visited the Executive Mansion, and there are thousands more slowly following in turn to indulge a similar privilege.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Senor Don Jose Antonio Garcia yesterday presented his credentials to the Acting Secretary of State, and was received as the Charge d'Affairs of the Republic of Peru to the United States.

Robert Barth has been appointed Consul of the Grand Duchy of Mechlenburg Schwerin, and also Consul of the Electorate of Hesse, at St. Louis and A. Clausenius, Consul of the Grand Duchy of Mechlenburg Schwerin at Chicago. They have been recognized by our Government accordingly.

CAIRO, April 18.—General Washburne has issued an order at Memphis, officially recognizing the fact that the rebellion is ended, and revoked several of the most stringent orders previously in force for the government of affairs in West Tennessee.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 17.—Gen. Hobson's men killed Marcen, the guerrilla yesterday. Webster, the noted guerrilla, is expected to surrender his whole command to Gen. Hobson, who has his forces so arranged that they must surrender or be exterminated.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Times dispatch, dated Blakely, Ala., 10th, says of the capture of the Spanish Fort: On the 8th twenty-two heavy Parrots were got within half a mile of the fort and eleven mortars, while the 12th Indiana, 8th Mass., and 21st N. Y. batteries were advanced to within one-third of a mile of the enemy's works. At a given time all the gunboats blazed away, and at the same time the sappers and miners advanced, killing every artilleryist that showed himself.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, April 18, 1865.

Major-General Dix:

The following dispatches from Major-General Canby report the capture of Spanish Fort and Fort Blakely, which form a part of the rebel defences of the city of Mobile:

HEADQUARTERS Middle Div., W. Miss., In the Field, April 9, 1865—9 A. M.

Major Gen. Halleck, Chief of Staff:

Spanish Fort and its dependencies were captured last night.

We have 25 officers and 533 enlisted men prisoners, and have taken five mortars and 25 guns.

The Mayor and part of the garrison escaped by water.

Blakely is already invested, and will be assaulted to-day, unless the works are stronger than I now believe them to be.

(Signed) E. R. S. CANBY, Major General.

HEADQUARTERS M. D. W., Miss., In the Field, April 9.

Lieut. Gen. Grant and Maj. Gen. Halleck: I have the honor to report the capture this day of the rebel fortifications at Blakely with 2,400 prisoners and 20 guns.

(Signed) E. R. S. CANBY, Major General.

(Signed) E. M. STANTON, Sec'y of War.
